Sarah Daniel

Sarah is a second-year master student at Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, majoring in International Financial Markets and International Trade. She earned a bachelor's degree in Economics from the University of Heidelberg and received two scholarships. In order to gain international experience she spent one year in Milan, Italy, and enriched her studies with a semester abroad in Hong Kong, attending lectures in Asia-Pacific-Economies, International Management and Mandarin. During an internship and as a working student at the Cologne Institute for Economic Research she was able to put her theoretical knowledge into practice. In her leisure time, Sarah enjoys to go for a jog and to travel.

Timon Gottschalk

Timon is a first-year master student at the Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, specializing in Entrepreneurial Management and Entrepreneurial Finance. In 2014, he earned a bachelor's degree in economics and enriched his studies with a semester abroad at the California State University of Fullerton (CSUF). He gained practical experience in the field of entrepreneurship and finance being a working student and as part of his apprenticeship as a bank clerk. In his free time, Timon enjoys playing tennis.

Anja Kievelitz

Anja is a second-year master student in Business Administration at the Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, majoring in Controlling & Audit, Finance, and Taxation. As an enrichment of her academic education, she spent parts of her studies abroad at the Universidad de Alicante, Spain, and the Ecole Supérieure de Commerce de Pau, France. During several internships, she gained practical experience in the field of Taxation, Controlling and Auditing. In her free time, Anja likes to play the piano, read and do sports. She is also passionate about foreign languages and travelling.

Peter Mandel

Peter is a second-year master student in Economics at the Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, majoring in Econometrics. He earned a bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of Göttingen with a major in Strategic Management. Peter enriched his studies through several internships, for example during a Post-merger integration project at the Toshiba TEC Corporation in Tokyo. Besides pursuing his master's degree, Peter gains profound practical insights working for a strategy consulting firm as a Junior Consultant. His work focuses on developing market-based strategies using advanced analytic techniques, especially in the areas of pricing and sales optimization. In his leisure time, Peter practices Wing Chun and travels around the world.

Laura Moll

Laura is a second-year master student at Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, majoring in Marketing, Entrepreneurial Management and Entrepreneurial Finance. She earned a bachelor's degree in Business Administration with a major in Corporate Financial Management from the University of Essen. Laura enriched her studies with a semester abroad in San Diego, where she did an Intensive English Course for Global Practice and Communication amongst others. She gained practical experience during an internship in Key Account Management with focus on sales and marketing. In her free time, Laura enjoys to travel and experience the world, and to practice, for example playing tennis.
